Presentation of the « Pass the SALT – Security And Libre Talks » Conference

« Pass the SALT – Security And Libre Talks » conference is an event dedicated to the Security and Free Software topic.

We (Mathieu Blanc, Christophe Brocas, Cédric Foll et Philippe Teuwen) have been chairmen of the Security Track of RMLL (Rencontres Mondiales du Logiciel Libre, annual French Free Software event) for many years.

This year, we have decided to launch a new autonomous event in order to :

- to provide permanence and convenient exposure to the topic of Security and Free Software
- to give the opportunity to people coming from all the Security and Free Software communities (DFIR, cryptography, reverse, network, privacy etc) to meet, speak and collaborate.

This event will take place between July 2 and 4, 2018 in Lille, France (in Polytech high school) and will be free entrance. The registration may be mandatory due to room limited capacity. All the talks will be held in English.

We will cover all Security, Free Software and/or open standards related topics.

Well known speakers come every year (JP Aumasson aka Veorq, Fred Raynal, Ange Albertini, Paul Rascagnères aka r00tBSD etc) and talks provide quality content according to general feedback.

You can assess it by yourself following the links below. We are also particularly proud about collaborations/contributions that have been achieved after previous RMLL Security Track editions.
